Sustainability Story

Lotus is crafted with a commitment to eco-friendliness, utilizing recyclable materials that reduce the strain on our planet's resources. The use of recycled plastic boards, primarily post-consumer HDPE plastic from items like milk jugs and laundry detergent bottles, minimizes waste and promotes a circular economy by repurposing materials that would otherwise end up in landfills. Lotus aligns with industry environmental certifications and standards, and complies with USGBC LEED requirements, meeting the criteria for materials originating from post-consumer waste.

A woman with long brown hair, wearing a white sweatshirt and white pants, is sitting cross-legged on a bed. She is holding a black notebook and a pen, appearing to be writing. The bed has a white sheet and a green blanket. To her right is a small wooden nightstand with a vase of white flowers. The background is a plain white wall.

Meet the Designer

Cesar Fernandes

Under the visionary design leadership of Cesar Fernandes, the Lotus Case Goods collection represents a significant leap in behavioral health furniture. Designed around two critical features in healthcare design – durability and aesthetics, the collection also includes an innovative approach including a concealed joinery system to prioritize safety and the use of high-density polyethylene that gives the entire series a wood-like appearance. Cesar has over 2 decades in furniture design and this collection shows the innovation him and the Stance development team bring to the healthcare market. Lotus is the epitome of Cesar's work in finding beauty in simplicity while balancing functionality for its users and supporting the key needs of facilities.

"We designed Lotus around how to improve Behavioral Health environments, resulting in a collection that adds a touch of warmth, comfort and safety for patients, visitors, and care providers."
